

President Hoover Asks Opinion of Roosevelt About Debt Question

On Board the Presidential Special En Route to Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—President Hoover was hurrying eastward today toward what may prove an historic conference between himself and President-elect Roosevelt over world debt questions.

Informed virtually all debtor nations of the United States intended to seek suspension of payments due December 15, Mr. Hoover yesterday made public a long telegram he sent to Governor Roosevelt at Albany, inviting him to visit the White House this week to seek a common basis of action extending debts into the next administration.

Roosevelt Silent.
Early this morning, the President had not received an acceptance of his invitation, but nevertheless he laid plans for a party to be held soon after his return to the White House Wednesday. It was learned authoritatively he has various definite steps in mind for dealing with the situation as it touches individual nations, but desires a cooperative conference with the President-elect before taking action.

"I am prepared," he wired to Roosevelt, "to deal with the subject as far as it lies in the power of the executive, but it must be our common wish to deal with this question in a constructive fashion for the common good of the country."

"I am loath to proceed with recommendations to the Congress until I can have an opportunity to confer with you personally at some convenient date in the near future."

Opposes Cancellation.
In his telegram Mr. Hoover reiterated his debts stand as opposed to "cancellation in any form," but said "we should be receptive to proposals from our debtors for tangible compensation in other forms than in direct payment in expansion of markets for the products of our labor and our farms."

"If negotiations are to be undertaken as requested by these governments," he said, "protracted and detailed discussions would be necessary, which could not be concluded during my administration. Any negotiations of this question on the basis of the requests of the government is limited by the resolution of the Congress."

"And if there is to be any change in the attitude of the Congress, it will be greatly affected by the views of those members who recognize you as their leader and who will properly desire your counsel and advice."

The Chicago Herald and Examiner said it had heard that gangsters hold options on two breweries, and that they were negotiating for more plants.

The newspaper said its information was that the gang's "muscle men" have been intimidating speakers, proprietors, and warning all concerned that they must stand by the hoodlums or take the consequences.

DECLARES AUCTION SALE WAS A SUCCESS
Richard Meyer, well known John street jeweler, who brought to an end the greatest auction sale in the history of his store, last Saturday, stated this morning that the sale was a great success, and he also expressed his thanks to the public for their patronage and friendly cooperation during the days of the auction.

Latest Developments On Debts, Armaments

(By The Associated Press)
Here are the latest developments on war debts and armaments:

France and England asked extension of the present moratorium, and suggested conferences with the United States looking to further revision.

President Hoover invited President-elect Roosevelt to confer with him on the problem.

Mr. Roosevelt at Albany prepared to reply today.

Senator Walsh (D., Mont.) proposed special session of Congress to pass on debt question. If matter is "urgent enough."

A committee, headed by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., and including Alfred E. Smith and Nicholas Murray Butler, advocated extension and readjustment of debts.

Senator Fess (R., Ohio) said he would favor a conference on adjustment of debts but would oppose negotiations designed to lead to "ultimate cancellation."

France completed details of a three-point armament reduction plan reported to include a general consultation pact by which nations would renounce the right of neutrality in case of war and would join in a general conference to cut armaments.

Koelnische Illustrierte Zeitung, a German weekly, in a review of French military organization, said "France is world's champion when it comes to camouflaging her military expenditures."

The French government called these conclusions "fantastic and false," and said France plans to reduce naval strength.

Gun Discharges Killing Hunter

Lorenzo Pape Killed by Accidental Discharge of His Gun When He Attempted to Climb Over Wall.

Instantly killed when a charge of shot entered the back of his head as he was climbing over a stone wall near the Fred Woolsey place near Milton, the body of Lorenzo Pape was found at the scene of the accident Sunday.

Pape, who was a resident of New Jersey, had been a visitor at the home of Joseph Canora, Sunday morning he took his gun and accompanied by his dog went out hunting. Some time later the dog returned without him. A search was immediately started and the dead body of the unfortunate young man was discovered. Marks on the wall and the circumstances surrounding the case indicated that Pape had been killed by the accidental discharge of his gun when he attempted to climb over the wall.

Sergeant Lockhart of the state troopers and Coroner Suter were notified. The coroner rendered a verdict of death by accidental shooting. It was judged that Pape had been dead several hours when his body was found.

In the Fisk tire monthly magazine of October, the C. and C. Tire Company of Kingston, dealers for over a decade for Fisk tires, were given a complimentary write up, along with a picture of their building on North Front street.

The write up, which appears on page six of the magazine, reads as follows:

"Sixteen years ago, Charlie Colsten, the Fisk dealer at Kingston, N. Y., sent his first check to the Fisk Tire Company. It amounted to $2.42, and covered an order for vulcanizing cement."

At that time Charlie was in partnership with Cap. Creighton. Cap. has since passed on, and young Bill Colsten is partner with his father.

Very many bills have been paid since this one of 1916, and quite often for good healthy amounts."

He was picked up by fellow workmen and rushed to the office of Dr. Galvin at Rosendale and later removed to the Kingston Hospital, where he was placed under the care of Dr. Frank A. Johnston. France Offers New Program for Peace

Complete Final Details of Three-Point Plan As Alternative to War—Plan Before Council of Ministers.

Paris, Nov. 14 (AP)—The high statesmen of France today completed the final details of a three-point armament plan and one of them pronounced the suggestion a great hope for the world disarmament conference, the failure of which would ultimately mean "a race toward war."

The detailed document entitled "Plan for organization of peace" was ready for presentation to the disarmament conference.

It provides for treaties of consultation, security and arms equality.

"This plan indicates for the first time, clearly and loyally before the world, what we are ready to do," said Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war and French delegate to the disarmament conference.

"The plan brings great hope to the disarmament conference whose failure would be a signal for a re-armament race which sooner or later would be a race toward war," he concluded.

Premier Herriot and members of the French delegation spent most of last evening putting the final touches on the plan.

Advance notice of the plan through disclosures to the Radical-Socialist party congress, to the Geneva conference committee, and to the press, seemed to present the idea like this:

1. A general consultation pact in which the nations of the world would renounce the right of neutrality in the event of war. This would involve the United States, as far as she has previously committed herself.

2. A general convention for the reduction of armaments. This probably would stress defensive armaments as opposed to powerful attack weapons. Here, too, might be a new definition of an aggressor nation from the French viewpoint.

3. A regional European pact providing for a general staff of Europe and armies to be placed at the disposal of a nation made the victim of aggression. This would envisage a conscript system for European armies abolishing professional armies, such as the German Reichswehr. This might also give Germany a basis for her claim to equality in armaments.

The plan was up before the council of ministers today, after formal approval has been given it, the document will be transmitted to Geneva for presentation by a member of the French delegation, probably Rene Massigli.

WAWARSING DEMOCRATS HELD ELECTION PARADE

The triumphant Democracy of the town of Wawarsing gave vent to pent-up feelings of many years and held a parade Saturday night in honor of the victory throughout the nation.

The parade was headed by Mayor Peter Bellman, in formal dress, followed by a number of the prominent Democrats of the town on foot. A band furnished music for the occasion, in addition to the usual accompaniment of horns, bells, etc.

There were several "allegorical" features, including a man wheeling a baby carriage containing a beer keg, while another in clown costume trundled a keg along the street. A large truck loaded with young folks bore the sign "More Beer, Less Taxes," while the riders shouted the slogan, "We want beer."

A half dozen women also took part in the parade.

Buffalo First to Attack St. Lawrence Prospect

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—Charging the St. Lawrence shipway project was a blow at "all Atlantic seaboard and gulf ports," Buffalo today fired the first shot in what is expected to be a determined fight to prevent ratification of the treaty with Canada.

The attack was made through the chamber of commerce, which also struck at the St. Lawrence power project, saying there was "no present market for the enormous amount of horsepower proposed to be developed" and no present demand for it in the vicinity.

The statement of the chamber of commerce said "if the proposed shipway is completed and secures the traffic its proponents claim, it will injure all Atlantic seaboard and gulf ports. Any injury to these established and taxable facilities is against public policy and will necessarily interfere with national defense."

Clearwater Tablet Honors Ancestors

Maxfield Keck, the famous sculptor, architect of New York and Philadelphia, visited New Palitz on Saturday and with his mechanics erected in the Reformed Dutch Church of that place a handsome bronze tablet designed by him pursuant to a commission given him by Judge Clearwater.

The tablet is in memory of those of the judge's ancestors who were members of that band of Huguenots exiled from France and Holland by the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. They came to Kingston and subsequently settled at New Palitz. Usually they are spoken of as the Patentees of New Palitz. They founded and their descendants for 250 years have maintained the Reformed Dutch Church of New Palitz, one of the most celebrated of the churches of that denomination in the world.

The tablet is 58 inches horizontally and 38 inches in perpendicular. It is of bright bronze, was cast by the Gorham Company of New York, has a frieze fleur-de-lis, the emblem of the Huguenots. It is decorated with five pointed stars, the emblem of the Dutch exiles who inter-married with the Huguenots. It is placed on the inner wall of the edifice on the right of the large principal door, and contains the following inscription:

TO THE GLORY OF GOD
1592 In Commemoration of the heroic devotion to the Faith and to this Church of Christian Deyo, Pierre Deyo, Marie Deyo, Jacob Clearwater, Agatha Nicoll, Abraham Clearwater, Libbeth Schoonmaker, Thomas Theunis Clearwater, Eve Helm Davis Clearwater.

This tablet is erected on the 334th anniversary of the Promulgation of the Edict of Nantes by their Descendant.

Alphonso Trumbour Clearwater, Semper Honor, Homenque Tuum, Laudoque Manebit.

(The Judge has selected as his tribute to his ancestors the immortal tribute of Virgil—"Your Honor, Your Name and Your Praises Shall Ever Remain.")

Colorado River Blasted from Bed

Boulder City, Nevada, Nov. 14 (AP)—Diving underground to the tune of 150,000 pounds of exploding dynamite, the Colorado river is today giving up its bed for nearly a mile so Hoover Dam can be built.

The blast yesterday at noon was like Titan's alarm clock. The job of actually ousting the turbulent river and sending it through two man-made holes in the mile high canyon wall proved to be a 24-hour task.

Completion of the Earthfill Dam to divert all waters through two Arizona side tunnels, each 50 feet wide, was a rush job lasting through the night to noon today.

During the night about half the river flow was pouring through the river diversion tunnel, the remaining flow rushing under a trestle from which great trucks were dumping rock at the rate of more than 30 tons a minute to complete the barrier.

This marks the accomplishment of the first major step in the $165,000,000 project for electric power, flood control in the Imperial Valley, reclamation of vast areas and development of domestic water supply for Southern California cities.

Excavation for Hoover Dam will proceed immediately. Walker R. Young, reclamation service construction engineer, and Frank T. Crowe, chief field engineer of the six companies, general contractors, said that work will continue to be pushed with all speed. Already they are a year ahead of schedule.

Santa Cruz Turned Into Funeral Pyre

Camaguey, Cuba, Nov. 14 (AP)—The town of Santa Cruz Del Sur became a gigantic funeral pyre today by order of military authorities.

The destruction of the town by wind and water which also took the lives of probably 2,500 Cubans last week, was thus completed for the sake of sanitation. The action rendered it probable that the exact number of persons killed by the hurricane of last Wednesday never will be known.

Meanwhile, President Gerardo Machado was ready to leave Havana to inspect the hurricane torn areas, and governmental agencies speeded the task of relief and rehabilitation.

Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, minister of the interior, who estimated the dead at 2,500, traversed much of the 100-mile wide path of the hurricane during the night with military authorities.

His train carried 350 sacks of rice, 6,000 pounds of lard and 2,000 sacks of beans and other ration for temporary relief of the thousands of homeless in Camaguey province.

Camaguey city, where more than 1,000 injured refugees are concentrated, mostly from Santa Cruz, today effected repairs on the aqueduct, ensuring a supply of water. The military ruled the city. Vaccination to avert epidemics was compulsory.

PARAGUAYAN ARMY STARTS FINAL DRIVE

Asuncion, Paraguay, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Paraguayan army was in the midst of its long heralded final drive in the Chaco today, after fighting two battles near strategic Fort Munoz in which from 500 to 800 men were reported slain.

The Paraguayans claim two victories in the fighting over the weekend. Both battles were fought in the vicinity of the Bolivian staff headquarters at Fort Munoz, and the 500 were slain near Fort Saavedra.

It was claimed unofficially that the Paraguayan "Macheteers of Death" annihilated a detachment of 300 Bolivian troops and captured many others near Cuatrovientos.

Roosevelt to Reply To Hoover Tuesday

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—President Hoover's invitation to confer with him on the war debt problem has been received by President-elect Roosevelt. It was announced at the executive mansion today.

The announcement of the receipt of Mr. Hoover's invitation to Mr. Roosevelt to discuss the latest notes from England and France on reopening the debt question was made informally, accompanied by the explanation that the President-elect would make public the text of his reply this afternoon, for publication in morning papers of tomorrow.

This course was assumed to have been taken by Mr. Roosevelt to allow preparation of the text and also to allow ample time for the reply to be in the hands of Mr. Hoover before it was made public at Albany.

Britain and France Seeking Relief from Further War Debts

Notes Ask Suspension of December 15 Payments of $83,550,000 and $19,261,438 Respectively—Expect Other Requests to Follow.

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Great Britain and France, each $4,000,000,000 debtors of the United States, today sought relief from further payments pending an international conference on world debt problems.

Publication of their formal requests to a government already recorded against further reduction or cancellation, coincided with a telegraphic invitation from President Hoover to President-elect Roosevelt, to confer on the subject—an unprecedented action.

Senator Walsh (D., Mont.) suggested if "it becomes necessary to dispose of the matter at once a special session of Congress should be called."

Representative Ragon (D., Ark.) who drafted the declaration against further reductions which Congress attached to the Hoover one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts, recommended that the House Ways and Means Committee consider the question immediately.

This previous congressional declaration was stressed by President Hoover in his telegram to Mr. Roosevelt.

The British and French notes, both asking suspension of December 15 payments of $83,550,000 and $19,261,438 respectively, were considered only the first of similar requests to be made by all America's war debtors for a revision of obligations. December payments are the first due since expiration of the moratorium.

In September, Estonia, Latvia and Poland took advantage of a 90-day notification clause in the debt funding agreements and told this government principal payments aggregating more than $3,000,000 would not be made in December. Last week Hungary served notice she could not meet her December installment and Greece failed to make a payment then due.

All of France's December payment is interest which, under the funding agreements, is not postponable. England's installment includes $30,000,000 of principal.

Britain's communication was a note signed by her ambassador, Mr. Roland Lindsay. Ambassador Claudel presented for the French government an unsigned memorandum of like tenor.

Stress Lausanne Conference
Both communications stressed the Lausanne Conference of last July at which the Allied Powers agreed to slash reparations to $712,500,000 on conditions that there be a reconsideration of inter-governmental debts including those owed by Europe to the United States.

The reparations total, first capitalized at $64,000,000, was scaled down to $31,500,000,000 in 1920, further reduced by the Dawes plan, and cut by the Young plan to between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000.

Both the British and French communications referred also to the joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval, after their conference here October 25, 1931, which said "we recognize that prior to the expiration of the Hoover year of postponement some agreement regarding them (debts) may be necessary covering the period of business depression."

The French government said its "heavy sacrifices" at Lausanne were based on the principles contained in the Hoover-Laval statement.

Britain's debt was funded at $4,640,000,000 and France at $4,025,000,000. All foreign debts to the United States aggregate $11,000,000,000. Total payments due from all debtor nations December 15 exceed $123,000,000. Those nations from which no communication or notice has yet been received include Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Finland and Italy.

Well, There Are Some
 Much writing has been done in prison, and much more should be. "Den Quater" and "The Pilgrim's Progress" were composed while their authors lay in dungeons more or less vile. Would you not be happy to know that many other masterpieces were required to read as a child were written in prison; or, at any rate, that any subsequent books by the same authors were?—Detroit News.

Dust Particles

How much dust there is in the air in a house would depend upon circumstances. It is said that a room near a ceiling has been found to contain 38,000,000 dust particles to the cubic inch. It is estimated that a cigarette smoker sends 4,000,000 particles into the air with every puff.

It's a common experience

Almost everyone keeps trying one laxative after another—and then finds Feen-a-mint is just what he's been looking for all the time. Pleasant to take, of course. In gum form to make you chew it—because doctors and scientists know that's the surest way to get the even distribution throughout the digestive tract that's essential for thorough action without griping. Safe, non-habit-forming, economical. At all drug-gists.

Chesterfields are Milder—

Chesterfields Taste Better

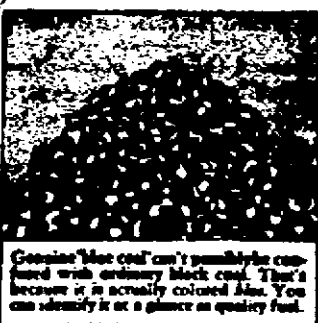

To make tobacco mild and mellow for Chesterfield cigarettes, just about four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe Domestic leaf, stored away to age for two years.

The greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in these tobaccos. Is it surprising that Chesterfields are milder? That they taste better?

Everything known to Science is used to make Chesterfields right! They're mild—and yet They Satisfy.

"TIN HAT" MAN ASKS PAYMENT FROM U. S.

British War Inventors Await Fate of Claims.

Washington.—A report on whether British inventors are entitled to approximately $2,500,000 for "tin hats" and other equipment used by American soldiers and sailors during the World War is being prepared by a commission of American military men, diplomats and legalists.

Testimony gathered by the commission during recent sessions in London, will be the basis of the report, which is to be submitted to Secretary of War Hurley soon. If Hurley approves, he will recommend payment to congress. If that body acts favorably, the claims will be added to America's already staggering war bill.

"Tin hats" are one of the principal items. The headgear adopted by the United States army was invented by an Englishman, John L. Brodie. Millions of these hats were used. Brodie's efforts to obtain royalties under the American patent failed, but he is asking remuneration for the hats purchased from Great Britain.

Other war equipment for which British inventors are seeking compensation includes a device for throwing depth charges from submarines, an "aid to the spotter" for submarines, a depth-charge laying apparatus and certain secret codes.

The commission for adjustment of British claims was appointed by Hurley last July. It included Lieut.-Col. Joseph I. McMullen, chairman; Assistant Attorney-General Charles B. Rogers, legal adviser; Assistant Secretary of State Harvey E. Bundy and Lieut. Com. Robert A. Lavender, U. S. N. Bruce McMullen, son of Colonel McMullen, acted as attorney for the United States.

Girl Proffers Feathers

as College Tuition Fee

Bloomington, Ill.—Duck feathers, fox pelts, farm produce and even live stock comprised tuition fees offered by students entering Illinois Wesleyan university when it opened for the fall term recently.

Nate Crabtree, business manager of the school, said the offer of the duck feathers came from a girl in Missouri. Her father, he said, owned a duck farm.

Unusual "fees" were offered as a result of an announcement by the school authorities that they would accept farm produce in lieu of cash because of economic conditions. The produce was to be accepted at prices ranging from 5 to 20 per cent above the market quotations.

Approximately 25 students took advantage of the school's offer. As a result the university now has stored in local warehouses and elevators an abundance of potatoes, corn, wheat, oats and other staple products. The university plans to sell them when the market is more opportune.

Swedish Police May Use

Movies in Riot Trials

Stockholm.—The police here are seriously thinking of using moving picture cameras during public disturbances to help them gain convictions. Stills taken during political riots and the like, have often been produced in court as evidence to show some person or persons in the act of stone throwing. The trouble with stills, however, is that although a person may be shown with a stone in his hand, there is no actual proof that the stone was thrown by that person. A moving picture camera would record every movement of the throwing, or as the case may be the striking of a blow. Experts are working on a camera of the baby type which can be carried easily, worked easily, and operated from a distance.

Roger's Press Agent

By MARK HEALEY

© by Mark Healey, New York, N.Y.

ROGER TRUCK always had dreaded parties, but that night of the Shaw's dinner party everything seemed different. The charming Mrs. Shaw greeted him with a beaming smile and Mr. Shaw, whom he had met only once before, had greeted him like an old friend. After that Shaw and he had gone arm in arm into the drawing room while Mrs. Shaw had presented him to the other guests.

"I do want you to meet Mr. Truce," she would say to one of the older women, "Roger Truce, you know. It's a great treat to have him with us." Or to another guest, "Molly, dear, this is our friend Roger Truce. You and he must have a chat together." And then Mr. Shaw again taking his arm led him into the study to two of the older men. "This is Roger Truce," he told them. "He's doing great things at the Durand plant—put over that new dehydrated process." And then Roger Truce forgot all about his muddy red hair, his spectacles and his large awkward hands, and felt as much at ease as he would have felt at the Durand plant.

Naturally Mrs. Shaw didn't present him to Stella Howe because it was Stella who had introduced him to the Shaws just ten days ago at the country club. Stella, talking to one of the younger men when Roger came in, had merely smiled and said "Hello, Roger," as Mr. Shaw led him to the library.

That half-hearted sort of greeting from Stella had been a little disconcerting and as Roger talked easily with the men in the library he had it in mind that later he must have a talk with Stella. He had expected to sit beside her at dinner but fifteen minutes later he found himself seated as guest of honor at Mrs. Shaw's right, with a charming, golden-haired blond on the other side.

In the back of his mind Roger tried to figure out what had happened. Either Mrs. Shaw was one of those perfect hostesses whose object is to make shy and awkward guests feel at home, or else her guests were much more responsive than any he had met at parties at home.

Mr. Shaw insisted on driving Roger back to his hotel, an arrangement that made it impossible for him to go home with Stella, and Roger felt not only a sense of disappointment but something of self-reproach as well because he had had no time to talk to her.

"I'm sorry I didn't have a chance to talk to you," he told her when they chanced to meet in the hall. "Maybe I can see you tomorrow evening."

"Maybe," said Stella rather vaguely. Roger sat thinking things over in his hotel room after the party trying to account for his amazing success as compared with the sense of complete failure that he usually experienced. The odd thing had been that of all the guests he had met, Stella and the Shaws were the only ones he had known before, and the Shaws he had met but once before. "They treated me as if I were somebody important. That's why I didn't feel shy."

The next day Roger was too absorbed with conferences and consultations at the plant to worry much about the situation, but that night when he went to call on Stella his embarrassment amounted almost to humiliation. And as he met her in the stately old-fashioned drawing room of her father's house he felt all the old-time awkwardness and self-consciousness returning.

"I'm afraid I made a fool of myself last night," Roger told her. "I'm sorry for you sake."

"Fool of yourself?" said Stella. "You were gorgeous. Mrs. Shaw has telephoned me twice to tell you how wonderful you are and two of the other people have called up to find out how much longer you'll be here in the East. They're planning to have more parties. Mr. Mason told Mrs. Mason you were the most brilliant young man he'd ever met. They want you for dinner Saturday."

"But how did they—?" Roger began, and then stopped, as his eyes met Stella's. "What made them think I was somebody? I felt like the worst chump in the world. As a matter of fact, I've nothing to offer."

"Don't you ever say that again, Roger Truce," Stella said. "You know what you've done for Durand. I know, because you've told me and because my brother told me when he wrote that you were coming on."

"If I have done a little something—how do they know?"

"Because I told them. I told the Shaws that you were one of the cleverest men I knew. I told them you were a comer. I told them that some day you'd be famous. I told them because I knew that if they didn't know it to start with they'd ignore you and that when people ignore you, you act like a goop. I knew that what you need is a press agent."

"But, Stella, you had no right—!" Roger realized he had made a fine start. All that seemed to matter then was that Stella thought he was somebody. Ever since he had met her he had been fighting against his feelings of inadequacy. Fighting against the charm that she exerted over him—and here she was telling him that he was somebody, telling him he was the cleverest man she knew.

Roger left his chair and took her in his arms. "I can't figure it out, Stella," he told her. "I know I need you. But more than that I love you!"

"GOD-MAN" OF INDIA TO BREAK SILENCE

Doctors Fear His Vocal Chords Are Dead.

New York.—The charmed followers of Sri Sadgura Meher Baba, the "Meeshah" and "God-man" of India, who tarried here briefly and silently last May, will be interested in the disclosure that the Zoroastrian priest will return to this country next February to break his seven-year lingual fast—if long disuse has not atrophied his vocal chords.

The news that the Parsee mystic, who has not spoken for seven years, and who is now wandering silently about Europe in a "superconscious state" awaiting further astral instructions, will speak next year came from Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes.

Baba, athletic looking man of thirty-eight, with flowing hair and beard, came here in May and was lodged in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Schloss, at Harmon, N. Y. He was to break his silence here, and rescue America from "materialism."

But suddenly Baba, who says he is part human, part divine, and has contact with the Beyond, declared he had been directed not to talk here. He went to Los Angeles to talk, but there got another message to hold off until 1934.

From there he went to China for one day, then to Genoa, Italy, still silent.

While keeping his silence unbroken, Baba "talks" via an alphabet board he has hung around his neck.

In his home country he is credited with performing many miracles such as starting or stopping rain, halting other forces of nature that threatened harm to mankind and the like.

Scientific interest in the babe lies principally in learning whether he still can talk after his seven years' silence. Experts declare that disuse may have rendered his vocal chords impotent to vibrate and that not even the yogi's "miraculous powers" may be sufficient to restore them.

Those who profess to know say, however, that the babe realizes all this and, having intended all the time to speak again some day, has "hemmed" and "hawed" and cleared his throat with a noiseless muscular action and practiced larynx calisthenics daily in order to keep the vocal cords from atrophying.

Famed Zouave of Paris Relegated to Ash Heap

Paris.—The famous Zouave, one of the group of four second empire soldiers which stand on the Pont de l'Alma over the Seine, has bowed to the march of progress and soon is to be relegated to the ash heap along with his other three comrades, who will meet his fate a few weeks later.

For more than 75 years the Zouave modeled after the hero of the Crimean war—has served as a high-water mark for Parisians when the rising river caused apprehension. When the river crept slowly to and finally touched the knees of the great statue it was time to worry. When the water began to snarl and eddy about the huge stone waist of the soldier—as it did in 1910—it was time to find living quarters somewhere on the fifth floor of an apartment building.

In 1900 excessive rains alarmed the inhabitants to such an extent that they prepared barricades along the river bank when the Zouave stood knee-deep in water.

According to history, Andre-Louis Gery, a Zouave who served France in Africa and Italy as well as during the Crimean war, posed for the statue, which was erected by Georges Diebolt. It was ordered by Napoleon III to commemorate a French victory in the Crimea.

Clean Pockets Daily Now Are Made Possible

London.—Future fashions in men's clothes will be dictated, in part, by science, if the Lancet, British medical journal, has any influence in Bond Street.

The Lancet comes out for removable pockets in coats and trousers. The editors argue that if cleanliness is next to godliness, every man is a sinner who puts his hands into pockets which are not cleaned every day or so.

Dr. Percy Edgewood has demonstrated a pocket he has devised for coat and trousers, capable of being removed, cleaned and disinfected by boiling, or otherwise, and replaced at will.

It takes a radio message only a fraction of a second to go around the world. The speed of international radio communication has shrunk the world to the dimensions of a room only 75 feet long, as demonstrated in a recent round-the-world broadcast. In this demonstration, the voice circumnavigated the globe from New York to Java and Australia and back again in the same fraction of a second and required for the words to echo from a wall of the experimental studio 75 feet from the microphone. This broadcast made the round-the-world journey in less than one-seventh of a second.

TAX REVOLUTION

Mark Levy, former president of the Chicago Real Estate Board, known not as a wild-eyed radical but an appraisal and leasing expert, makes some revolutionary prophecies about taxation. In the future, he suggests—say half a century from now—the main burden of taxes will be shifted from real estate, and the base of taxation will be spread so that "everyone will participate in the cost of government." Property taxes will be based, he says, not on values but on earnings. Home-owners will be exempt as such, because they have no capital earnings, but will contribute to the tax funds through carefully imposed and graduated sales taxes. Luxuries will pay more than necessities.

Other scoring points, besides low accident mortality, are improvement over previous years, various safety activities, and so on.

DIAGNOSIS.
When we remember that there are about 1,000 diseases and conditions, and that each one is capable of producing, on an average basis, about twenty symptoms; that less than one in a hundred of these diseases has a "sure" or definitely true sign that can be recognized; that each one has many other diseases similar in nature; that each one must be recognized and distinguished from others, not by a single symptom but by certain combinations or groups of symptoms; that these groupings are never the same in the same disease, whether in the same or different patients; then, and only then, will we awaken to the fact that this part of diagnosis is too complicated for the unaided mind of man.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER RABBIT'S LAST DOUBT IS CLEARED AWAY

Though you say you believe that a thing is so, and you do your best to believe, you know, it will happen a doubt in your mind will creep and quite refuse to be put to sleep.

A LITTLE doubt like this will keep right on bothering, and the only way in which it can be put to sleep is by finding for yourself the proof that what you are trying to believe is so. Peter Rabbit said that he believed all Lightfoot the Deer had told him about his wonderful horns, and how they had grown in a single summer. He did believe it while he was with Lightfoot, for hadn't Lightfoot the Deer said that it was true. But when Peter got back to the dear Old Briar Patch and thought it all over doubt crept into his mind in spite of him. He told Little Mrs. Peter all about it. When he had finished she looked at him queerly.

"Lightfoot's Story Was True!" Cried Peter Joyfully.

"Peter," said she, "if someone should come along and tell you that he could take his head off and put it back on again, I believe you would believe it. It is my opinion that Lightfoot was stalling you and that Cousin Jumper was backing him up just to see how big a yarn they could make you swallow."

"But, my dear, I tell you that I saw the sign of the covering that had been on those horns while they were growing," protested Peter.

"Perhaps you did and perhaps you didn't," retorted, unbelieving Mrs. Peter Rabbit. "I don't doubt you saw signs of some kind on Lightfoot's horns, but it will take more than his word to make me believe that those are new horns grown this last summer. It doesn't sound reasonable. Now, dear, be Peter?"

"No, it doesn't," confessed Peter; "but there are so many things happening all the time that don't sound reasonable that I don't know when to believe a thing and when not to."

Peter had planned to go about some of his friends and tell them all about Lightfoot's new horns, for he suspected that few of them knew about them. But after his talk with Mrs. Peter he changed his mind. You see doubt had crept in, and in spite of all he could do it stayed there. He tried to make himself believe that he believed that story, but that miserable doubt persisted. So, though his tongue fairly itched to tell the story of Lightfoot's new horns, he kept it still.

One night when Mistress Moon was shining brightly Peter wandered deep in the Green Forest until presently he found himself on the edge of a swampy place. It was the very place where Lightfoot the Deer had spent the winter when the snow was deep. Peter hopped along silently. He was thinking so hard that he didn't watch his steps, and presently he stepped on something that hurt his foot.

"Ouch!" he cried, and looked to see what it was he had stepped on. Sucking out of the soft wet earth was what Peter at first thought was a sharp pointed stick. But when he looked a little more closely he saw that it was different from any stick he had ever seen before. The point was smooth and polished, and when Peter tried his teeth on it he found he made no impression on it. At once he began to dig around it to see what the rest of it was like. It wasn't long before he found that there were other points. A thought flashed into Peter's head, and he made the soft earth fairly fly as he dug, for Peter was growing more and more excited.

At last he had uncovered all of the queer stick with several points. It wasn't a stick at all. It was one of Lightfoot's old horns. There was no question about that. There it lay right in front of him. Peter gave a great sigh of pure happiness. That bothersome doubt in his mind had been put to sleep forever. Lightfoot had said that his old horns had dropped off somewhere, and here was one of them to prove it.

"Lightfoot's story was true!" cried Peter joyfully. "Now Mrs. Peter will have to believe it. If she don't I'll make her come over here and see this horn for herself. When you tell a story that's hard to believe there is nothing like having proof that it is true." Peter jumped up in the air, kicked his long legs together and then started for home, hip-ty-hip-ty-ty, to tell Mrs. Peter what he had found.

VAN KEUREN ALLEGES HE WAS ASSAULTED

Robert LaBarge was arrested Sunday on a charge preferred by W. W. Van Keuren, the latter charging that LaBarge came to his home about 3 o'clock Sunday evening, called him outside and assaulted him. LaBarge was arraigned before Justice Walter Webber, demanded a jury trial and the case was set down for a hearing on Friday, November 18, at 7 p. m. Van Keuren, who shows the marks of rough usage, has had previous trouble with LaBarge.

Polyglot Cyprian

There is a great difference in language among cyprian tribes. In America the younger generations speak English and are rapidly forgetting their native tongue. Hungarian, Rumanian and Spanish cyprian seldom meet.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 14 (AP).—Stocks ran into a mild flurry of profit-taking today, but it was readily absorbed in the early trading, and the list showed recuperative power thereafter.

In view of the extent of the recovery in the past ten days, brokers felt that a reaction was probably in order. Early strength of wheat presumably bolstered the share market after the first hour. Selling failed to reach important proportions.

Union Pacific dropped 3 points at the start, but later recovered more than half its loss. Santa Fe lost a couple of points before meeting support, and Southern Pacific and New York Central slid off a point or so. United States Steel was sold in some volume, declining 1½ points to 37½, but thereafter regained half its loss. Dupont, Allied Chemical, United Aircraft, and Case were down about 2 points, before meeting support. Montgomery Ward edged a point in rather active selling, before turning upward.

In the past ten days, the list had recovered roughly half of the extreme loss of the downswing which started early in September. This kept it within the bounds of a normal technical upswing. Week-end news developments of a character to influence the market were meager, and Wall Street was intently watching the war debt situation, and corporate and trade news, for a more definite clue as to the trend.

A factor making for considerable uncertainty in the stock market was the dividend meeting of the American Telephone directors, slated for Wednesday. Wall Street has recently been inclined to look for the maintenance of the regular $3 annual rate for another quarter, particularly in view of the regular U. S. Steel preferred dividend. Nevertheless, telephone disconnections in October were somewhat larger than in September.

Meet THE NEW PRESIDENT!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of six articles on President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, revealing little incidents in his everyday life, his traits of character, his philosophies and interests.

By WALTER T. BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer Who Accompanied Roosevelt On His Campaign.

Albany, N. Y. (AP)—Meals in the household of President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt are "formal" by designation, but in reality they are most "informal."

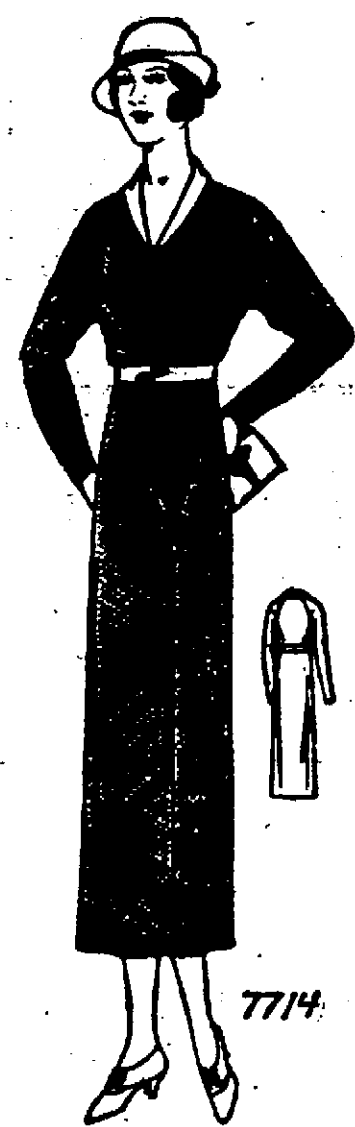

Mr. Roosevelt for years has breakfasted in bed. He has two reasons for this. One is because he enjoys it; the other is because he can read and dictate letters, and even on occasions receive visitors while eating. When in Albany and at the state capital Mr. Roosevelt often eats breakfast at his desk. Frequently he has a guest or two and they dine with him off the improvised table.

The evening meal in the Roosevelt household always has been supper, never dinner. Seldom are there only members of the family at this meal. Mrs. Roosevelt says she never knows if there are to be "five or fifty" for supper. But regardless of the number, or their places in society, there soon is an easy, free flow of conversation.

Mr. Roosevelt sits at one end of the table. Mrs. Roosevelt at the other. If conversation lags, one or the other always has a joke or an anecdote to relate.

The children have their places in the dinner scheme. An animated discussion between Mr. Roosevelt and Fanny Hurst, the writer, over Russia one evening was followed by 16-year-old John telling of a new horse on the farm at Hyde Park.

The Grange is having an oyster supper in the Grange Hall on Tuesday, November 15, at 6 o'clock. All wishing an enjoyable evening are urged to attend by the Grange.

Birds Ooze Bad Teeth
No exotic species of bird has teeth. Scientists have found fossils of prehistoric birds which had teeth.

The President-Elect, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is shown above dialing informally, with his daughter, Mrs. Curtis B. Hall serving him, and listening to a secret told him by his granddaughter, Anna Eleanor Hall.

Frequently when the family gathers at Krum Elbow, with the President-Elect's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, the children narrate escapades of modern day youth, intending to shock their grandmother. This appeals to Mr. Roosevelt and he often joins in.

His grandchildren are favorites with the President-Elect. He takes an interest in the play and accomplishments of Anna Eleanor, 5, and Curtis Roosevelt Hall, 2, and Sarah Delano Roosevelt, 8 months old.

FLATBUSH

Flatbush, Nov. 14.—A very enjoyable get-together social was held in the Flatbush Reformed Church hall last Friday evening, by the members of the church. The evening began with a "pot-luck" supper, and was greatly enjoyed by all. After supper a group of young people presented a play "Sophie from Sandville," which brought forth many laughs from the audience. Those taking part were Miss Cheshire, the aunt; Miss Elizabeth Davis, the niece; Edmund Osterhout, the boy friend; Merton Davis, the chauffeur; and Miss Virginia Edinger as Sophie. Singing and playing games filled the balance of the evening. Such a good time was had by all that everyone wanted to know when there would be another "get-together" evening.

Prayer meeting was held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis.

The Junior Christian Endeavor held its business meeting at the home of Gladys Klotz last Saturday afternoon.

The Flatbush Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Christiana Duckler to practice for a play the ladies are planning to give later in the winter.

A number of members of the Flatbush Church met at the parsonage to talk over plans to form a Choral Society.

The residents of Flatbush are glad to be able to go direct to Kingston without detour. The road has just been re-surfaced. The road north from Cassell's hill is still under construction, but buses seem to be running on schedule however.

THE VLY.

The Vly. Nov. 14.—A clam chowder supper will be served in the Vly Church Hall on Friday, November 18. Supper will be served from 6 o'clock until all are served. All are welcome to attend this supper.

"Kingston: Washington Merry-Go-Round". Politics is taken for a ride in this dramatic and intensely entertaining story of Washington and what goes on behind the scenes in the capital city. The story concerns a young congressman, who goes to Washington on votes that were purchased. His aim is to double cross the rotten gang that sent him there, and work for the interests of his country. When he gets there, he finds that even the men who run the country's affairs are not prone to corruption and self-interest. That is the plot, but the show is handled so capably, the acting is so sincere, and the direction so well handled, that this talkie is one of the most diverting and entertaining pictures offered for public consumption during the year. Lee Tracy, Constance Cummings, and Alan Dinehart are the principal players, with James Cruze directing. This show has everything. Recommended as superlative entertainment.

Orpheum: "Many a Slip" and "Strangers of the Evening." Low Ayres and Joan Bonetti are the players in the first talkie, a story of love and romance with a minimum of plot and action. "Strangers of the Evening" gives Lucien Littlefield, Eugene Pallette, and Zasu Pitts many bright comedy moments, and the show moves along at a merry pace throughout.

Broadway: "All American". The best picture on the game of football to come from the Hollywood studios. Its plot shows the ups and downs of an All-American football star after he leaves college to seek some sort of career. Made a popular idol by the yelling public in the stadium, he finds the going tougher after the shouting has dwindled with his graduation. Richard Arlen, in the starring role, is perfect as the football star, and Gloria Stuart, a newcomer, shows promise with a capable performance. In order to make the show authentic, the All-American team of 1931 all contribute their talents to the show. In one of the games the camera records the All-American ability of Cagle of Army, Dalmayre of Tulane, Carides of Notre Dame, Booth of Yale, Nevins of Stanford, Cain of Alabama, Schwartz of Notre Dame, Baker of U. S. C. and others. If you like football, here's the ultimate in that sort of entertainment. Worth seeing.

Ritz: "Scarface". The Ritz theatre again opens its doors to the public under new management with this authentic, brutal, dramatic exposé of American gangsterism and gangsters. Many of the scenes are taken from actual happenings, and there isn't a dull moment in the whole show. The film is an attempt to challenge the American people to some action, against the growing menace of lawlessness. Paul Muni in the starring role, gives his finest screen performance as the ruthless, cowardly gang chieftain, and Ann Dvorak is also effective as his sister.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: Same.
Broadway: Same.

Ritz: "The Trial of Vivienne Ware." A well mystery-comedy drama with Joan Bennett playing the part of a girl accused of murder. Most of the action takes place in the court room, and the scenes are packed with humor and action. Donald Cook, Skeets Gallagher, and Zasu Pitts are also in the cast.

Evolutionary Law?
Mellorism is the belief that the improvement of the world by human effort is not only possible, but that such improvement is a law of evolution. The term was first used by the novelist George Elliot.

Cullum Races 98 Yards To Bring Maroon Victory

At the darkest moment in the third quarter when Kingston had the ball on the goal posts, the Maroon held and on the first play Captain Jim Cullum of the local eleven broke loose on a close formation and converted a 7-7 tie into a 14-7 victory over Raymond Rorison Prep on the Kingston Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon.

Rorison upset Kingston early in the battle. A punt was blocked to the Kingston territory while the second string backfield of the Maroon had charge of the offense. Rorison had enough strength to take advantage of its position and shortly after scored—Haggerty took the ball over. The extra point was good as a result of Bertrand receiving a pass from Haggerty.

Coch Kias ushered in his first string backs, the varsity line had started; and so the forces of Kingston began to operate against Rorison—a team that possessed more power of offense than had been expected. Still Kingston managed to repulse all the attacks in the future and at the same time hit a good pace on the offense. Cullum got away in the first quarter for 25 yards and Burgevin followed this dash with a 10 yard punt.

Kelder Scores

In about the first five minutes of the second quarter Kingston began to function properly. Burgevin took a punt on the 50 yard line and ran it back to Rorison's 29 yard strip. It was a 21 yard sprint and Burgevin showed first rate running. A penalty followed and the ball rested on the 24 yard strip when Whitaker took the pigskin and cracked one of the tackles for five more. Then Cullum got away for 11 yards and the team lined up on the eight yard line. The next play was a wide end sweep and Gil Kelder had the assignment. With a burst of speed and a keen eye for judging, he circled Rorison's right end for the score. Cullum plunked for the extra point and the tally then was tied, 7-7.

For the rest of the quarter there was good football—not exactly from the standpoint of perfection of play but from the angle of spectacular play. Shortly after the score Kelder returned a punt 25 yards through a gauntlet of vicious tacklers. Whitaker accomplished a similar feat toward the end of the quarter when he raced back a kick 22 yards.

Rorison Reaches 3 Yard Line

The big Green team at the beginning of the second half was a much revived outfit. It took the kickoff from Kingston on the 20 yard line and Bertrand returned it to the 43. From this point the drive began and Bertrand played the major part in its success. He was a big boy—not particularly fast; but with plenty of drive and power. He crashed the center and tackled Kingston's forward wall and Jack Zachoo, and Charlie Rathie were the big guns on the Kingston defense.

From the 43 yard line Bertrand began towing the pigskin. He took the ball every time. He would go for eight yards; then two; then 10. When the Green eleven reached the Kingston 34 yard line, it changed tactics. Haggerty dropped back and tossed Bertrand passes. The first went for six yards to the 30 yard line and the second for six more to the 24 yard marker.

Here Bertrand began his line backs again. He drove twice at the Maroon line and made four yards the first time and four the second. Then on a wide play Haggerty was thrown for a three yard loss. Again Bertrand came to the rescue and made up for the ground lost by his running mate Haggerty by plunging to the 10 yard line, a distance of 9 yards. A five yard pass from Haggerty and Bertrand took the oval to the five yard strip for a first down.

Rorison had four downs in which to make five yards. It seemed as good as done after they had traveled 75 yards without being halted once. The visitors settled down to their task and Bertrand was the main cog in the machine once more. He hit low, hard and with all the spirit that goes with making a touchdown, but the Kingston forwards would not back more than a few feet at a time. At the end of the fourth down, however, the ball rested on the two yard line and a situation was conquered by the locals and the tension eliminated.

Cullum Makes Brilliant Run.

Quarterback Cullum then called for a play of close formation. He took the oval himself and started. The forwards ripped a hole on the Rorison line and Cullum raced through it his companions blocking out the secondary defense like experts.

There were still other backs to contend with and Cullum chose his course accordingly. He raced on and on shedding a tackle now and then. Finally the safety man loomed up but the feeling Maroon quarterback was set for him. Cullum changed his pace just enough to have the tackler make a stab at him from a greater distance than the Green jersey intended it to be, thus causing him to miss and the field was clear at last.

Cullum ran 58 yards under gun fire. Tacklers came in from many angles but all failed. The last 40 yards of the gridiron Cullum ran alone and crossed the goal line free as the wind. He dropped back in formation for the extra point and drop kicked the pigskin over the bar.

Brereton Run 66 Yards.

The crowd had hardly quieted down when Haggerty threw a pass to Brereton and the latter after catching it ran 66 yards to Kingston's nine yard line. The ball was centered in the 21 yard strip and Haggerty threw the pass to Brereton who took it on the 10 yard marker and was tackled by Zachoo on the nine yard line. That play almost ended a stampede.

Haggerty took the ball on the next play and went to the yard line. A short pass from Haggerty to Brereton resulted five yards more. In

Winner In The West

Port Jervis Defeats Yellow Jackets, 2-0

The winning buzz of the Yellow Jackets, which had grown after six straight wins, was silenced by the Port Jervis Police who came to the Fair Grounds Sunday with a brilliant defense that worked especially well on the Bees' passing attack—the department of play by which they defeated most of their opponents including the Sing Sing eleven of Johnny Law, former Notre Dame star.

Sunday's set-back brought much chagrin to Manager Lou Kantrowitz's boys who up until they tackled the Port Coppers were riding the crest of the wave of popularity, their fame having spread as far west as California. Newspapers all over the country heralded them as a great group of riders after their victory at Sing Sing. They trimmed the Convict team 18-7, thereby accomplishing a task that the Port Jervis team failed to do.

Because of the Yellow Jackets' victory over Sing Sing and the defeat of Port Jervis by the Convicts, the Kingston group was favored to win Sunday; but the preparations that the Tri-Staters had made proved effective against the Waps who held one practice for the game and were reported to have been confident of winning. As the result of drills held by the visitors to equip themselves for the grid battle, fans saw one of the best defensive games ever played against the Kingston team.

The visitors were one of the best groups of men that has met the Yellow Jackets this season. Most of them were former high school stars that in bygone years faced Coach G. Warren Kias' Kingston High eleven. The most outstanding member of the ball-carrying division was Cudeback, the nucleus of the Port school's team in 1928. Duffy, the star of '29, was also among the backs. There was Curtis, Bierlein and Castler—the stars of '30 and '31. These boys made a fine offense. They banged the tackles; circled the ends and passed with a great degree of perfection. The speed of the backs and the power of the forwards brought to light that they surpassed the Jackets in swiftness of foot and unity.

The power of Beany; the swiftness of Hoffman and the shiftness of Christmas, along with the craftiness of Colvin had little effect on the great defense powers of Port Jervis. Without a doubt Port was the best equipped team in the departments of offense and defense that has faced the Yellow Jackets in some time.

Ball in Port Territory

Throughout the major part of the first two quarters the ball remained in the Port Jervis territory. The first quarter saw plenty of punting down and as a result of a punt to Port and a fumble that was recovered by Hupfer, Kingston penetrated deep into the visitor's zone. Hupfer recovered the fumble on the 15 yard line and a few drives at the Port forwards brought the oval up to the three yard marker. Then the Jackets tried a wide sweep of the end. Christmas carried the ball; but the Port tacklers broke through and brought him down for a 10 yard loss. This was Kingston's last down and from here—the 13 yard line—the Cops began their first offense drive. Cudeback went nine yards on an off tackle but following plays failed to click so the Tri-State City team punted out to their own 45 yard line. The exchange of punts followed this very closely and Stan Colvin got away for 30 yards just as the quarter came to an end.

Kingston began the second quarter with the ball in its possession on the 10 yard strip. From this position the pigskin was put into play and shortly after was surrendered by the Jackets on downs. On the first two plays of the Cops, however, much headway was made. On the third a pass was thrown and Al-abama Christmas intercepted it on Port's 30 yard line. Kingston then took the ball back to Port's 14 yard line but just as its offense seemed to click just as quickly was it checked by the visitors. Beany punted one down to the Cops' two yard line later in the same quarter and Port played a game of chance. Instead of punting, Duffy threw a pass to Birmingham out to the 19 yard line. The latter played a great offensive game all the way through. He caught pass after pass and Duffy was as accurate as a college back. Following this pass the Port offense went bad again and Bierlein punted. He kicked to Kingston's 45 yard line.

Kingston Withheld Passes.

Port was set for Kingston's great passing campaign. It was heralded through its section of the state that the Jackets' passing plays defeated Sing Sing; so the Cops were set for the aerial attack. It was late in the second quarter when Kingston uncorked its first pass: Beany dropped back and shot an 18 yard pass to Scheffel.

In the third quarter the locals spent the greater part of the time on defense. Paul Howard, the old stalwart at center was removed from the game for a while because of being injured. Paul was digging in to stop the heavy onslaught of the Port advances and they must have been terrific when he crumpled under them. Pete Minasian started on the defense. He stopped many a play, as did Rosa, McDonald and Hupfer. The Duffy-Cudeback-Bierlein running was threatening at all times. The Duffy-Birmingham passing combination was efficient. They were dangerous at all times. The team seemed to work with great harmony.

The Port defense was very good. Wherever a Yellow-Jacket play was sent there were always a number of Orange jerseys to meet it. Rom Port's center, was the bright light of the Cops. The majority of the time Rosa was at the bottom of all plays. He was instrumental in stopping most of them.

Romer Scores Safety.

When the third quarter was almost over, Kingston had the ball deep in its own territory—on a 15 yard line. Beany received a pass from center; it was low. He juggled it for a second and kept going back towards his goal line trying to get his bearing when "som" a Port tackler, smacked Beany behind his own goal line. That tackler was Romer, a power in the Port defense. The two winning points were made.

Port Tries Kick

Early in the last quarter Port tried a placement kick from the 30 yard line. It was an angle at that. Bierlein tried the boot for three points but it fell short. Kingston gained the ball and launched its grand passing attack. Out of the many thrown only two were completed—one in the middle of the fourth quarter for 20 yards from Beany to Scheffel and the other in the later part for 13 yards from Beany to Hupfer.

Many attempts were made by the Kingston eleven. Beany stepped back to throw pass after pass, long but inaccurate. Scheffel was away once under one of Beany's 50 yard tosses but the ball fell just a little ahead of him. If he had caught it the Port team would have been just another victim of the Jackets. However, the great attempt in the last minutes was gallant but not yielding; so the contingent of the Bees failed to get the "honey" this trip.

SPORT SLANTS

Chick Meahan says his leaky Manhattan College quarterback, Bill Pendergast, is one of the best break-on-field runners he ever coached.

"He weighs only 157 pounds and stands over six feet," says Chick. "But how he can go. He has one of the longest strides I have ever seen; in fact, almost too long."

Just how good is Dixie Roberts, Vanderbilt's power back? Read this evidence: "With about three minutes left of the first half Maryland was leading, 12 to 7. Then Roberts went on the field, with Vanderbilt in possession of the ball on its own 20-yard line. In three plays" Roberts scored a touchdown which put Vanderbilt in the lead at the end of the half, 12 to 12. Roberts played in the third quarter and was either directly or indirectly responsible for the scoring of three more touchdowns. Then he left the game and it was a pretty even battle again."

Roberts' teammate, Pete Gracey at center, is another Commodore candidate for "all" honors. South as well as East and West.

Alex Means Lefty:

"Chile Selects Alexander; Grove Boats," says a headline.

We thought Alex was still with the House of David and Lefty touring the Orient.

Alumni and undergraduates have applied for only 30,000 of the 50,000 tickets available for the Yale-Princeton game this November 18.

The remaining 20,000, it is announced, "will be sold" to the public, which couldn't buy them when it had the money and now very likely isn't so much interested in the proposition.

"Football has come to the crossroads," reads a metropolitan editorial. "We have no real regard for its future. The game is going back to its players and undergraduate supporters."

As "Rym" Berry of Cornell once suggested, we may be prepared to hear any time now that horse-racing is to be given back to the horses.

Winners Will Pay Off

College football definition is not the particular result of any master-mind by its authorities or the accumulation of effect of widespread "publications." Conditions over which the game has little or no control have acted to restore more normal viewpoints, diminished gate receipts and check the ballyhoo, to a certain extent.

The payoff is still on the winning team and the successful coach (as witness, for example, the mid-season shakeups at Georgetown and Kansas), although circumstances of far-reaching effect generally have helped re-adjust the football focus.

CHOCOLATE VS. NERO, CARNERA VS. BARTI

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Ed Chocolate, Havana negro flash, and Primo Carnera, huge Venetian, are the headliners in this week's slender and generally uninteresting boxing program.

Chocolate, recognized in some sections as junior lightweight champion and in New York state as world featherweight king, tackles the veteran Seminoles Indian, Pete Nero, of Tampa, Fla., in a ten-round match at the St. Nicholas arena here tonight; neither of Chocolate's titles will be at stake.

Carnera meets Jose Santa, of Portugal in the ten-round feature at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Will Coach Army

Lieut. Garrison H. Burdman, who graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1927, has been named as the new head grid coach at West Point, beginning with the season of 1928. Next June Maj. Ralph Scott, the present head coach, will end his four-year detail on grid coach to be succeeded by Davidson. Garrison has spent his five years since graduation as coach of the scrub or picnic team at the Point and so has completed the groundwork for successful head coaching.

Two More Bridge Trophies For Sims

New York, Nov. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims made room today in their home at Deal, N. J., for two more bridge trophies in their extensive collection.
Sims won the individual trophy in the New York state contract championships held under the auspices of the American Bridge League. Mrs. Sims and Waldemar Von Zedwitz won the mixed pair event. The competitions were concluded over the week-end at the Ritz in New York.

In the individual event each of the 54 qualifiers had to play with every other qualifier as partner. Twenty pairs competed in the mixed event.
Typical of Sims' play was a hand in which he took all the tricks at no trump after passing originally with cards on which some players would have opened the auction. It was a squeeze play by which he put an adversary to sleep. A little slam was bid. The grand slam was not biddable because of the lack of one ace. Here was the hand:
Sims, North (Dealer).

H-4 2
D-K Q 3
C-A Q 2 6 4 3 2 2

West. East.
S-8 6 3 S-J 10 7 5 2
H-3 7 H-Q J 8 6 3
D-J 8 7 6 5 D-A 9
C-J 10 C-9

South.
S-A K 4
H-A K 10 5
D-10 4 2
C-K 8 5

The bidding was: North, pass; East, pass; South, one heart; West, pass; North, two clubs; East, two spades; South, double; West, pass; North, two no trump; East, pass; South, five no trump; West, pass; North, six no trump.

East opened a spade, which was taken in the north hand. Sims then played all the clubs and East was queered so that he had to unguard the hearts, the ten of hearts in the South hand taking the thirteenth trick.

FOREIGNERS TAKE UP FRENCH FARMS

Native Finds City Life More to His Liking.

Paris.—With a population of 41,834, 823, France appears gradually resigning the problem of its regeneration to the foreign element, who, according to statistics, have twice as many children as the French, and who already are taking over thousands of farms abandoned by Frenchmen moving into the cities.

With an increasing population in the cities and virtually a stationary population in the country, France offers the least encumbered place in Europe for the neighboring countries suffering from too much politics and patrialism.

Spaniards, Italians, Poles, Belgians and even Germans are crowding into France.

Moreover, the French farms, abandoned by broken French families, are being manned by thousands of soil loving Italians. In 33 departments of France there has been a diminution of population. Curiously enough, the rich agricultural departments of the north, in Brittany, in the Ardennes, in Normandy, and in the regions about Paris, the population has greatly diminished. But in many of these deserted regions, the foreign population is noteworthy. In the Ardennes, there are 30,000 foreigners; Saine et Loire, 28,000; Gers, 15,000; Cote d'Or, 14,000; Aveyron, 13,000; etc.

The population of Paris is 2,801,020, with 278,111 foreigners included.

The foreigner is welcome if he submits to French laws and pays his taxes.

Since 1930, the birth rate among these foreign elements is two-thirds compared to one-third native French.

The best indication that the foreign element has come to stay is revealed in the fact that among employers and proprietors, there are 14,719 Italians; 8,405 Spaniards; 4,797 Belgians; 3,413 Swiss; 916 Luxemburgers; 416 Germans; and 141-Britons.

There are more than 24,000 Italian farmers operating properties on the shore basin; more than 20,000 Belgians, 7,000 Spaniards and 4,700 Swiss.

Swimming Under Water.
The distance which a person may swim under water varies as to conditions. Probably an average swimmer in a pool can swim 30 feet under water. M. Pauliquen in Paris, France, on November 3, 1912, remained under water 6 minutes 29.43 seconds. Jack Trivilla of Avalon, Calif., swam under water 128.41 yards in 2 minutes 13.34 seconds at the Salt Water stadium in Seattle, Wash., July 23, 1912.

PONTINE MARSHES WILL BECOME FARMS

Italian Engineers Reclaim Vast Areas of Land.

Washington.—The Pontine marshes, renowned through history as a breeding place of malaria, are being reclaimed in one of Italy's major engineering projects. Vast areas of fertile land only 30 miles from densely populated Rome will be thrown open to colonization as soon as roads and rural centers can be built in the newly-drained sections. The land will be sold on easy terms in an effort to make the project pay for itself.

"While the Pontine marshes lie within 'commuting' distance of the capital of Italy, and are crossed by the Appian way, one of the world's most famous roads, the region has remained one of the strangest and least-known corners of Italy," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

"The Via Appia, (Appian way) built by Appian Claudius about 300 years B. C., starts from Porta San Sebastiano, the southern gate of Rome, and leads toward Naples. For the first 65 miles it runs as straight as a tangent string, until it reaches the town of Terracina, where it passes under the cliff of Monte Sant' Angelo that overhangs the sea.

Old Roman Monuments.
"When you leave the Eternal city on this classic road, you pass at first along a wonderful array of old Roman sepulchral monuments; then you climb up the Alban hills, extinct volcanoes of prehistoric times, and from there you gradually descend upon a great plain, some 30 miles from Rome, known to history as the Pontine marshes.

"On the left, as you travel toward Terracina, are the olive-covered Lepine mountains, of gray limestone, that at sunset are veiled by that beautiful purple haze one sees so often reproduced on the background of the early Renaissance paintings. To the right is the Tyrrhenian sea, along the border of which runs a large sand dune covered by an oak forest some 30 miles in length. Between the dune and the sea is a series of lagoons.

"At the extreme end a solitary mountain rises, to all appearances from the sea. It is Mount Circeo, the cornerstone of the Pontine marshes. This mountain was an island in bygone ages, as geologists have proved, and Homer, eight centuries before Christ, speaks of it in the 'Odyssey' as an island, though probably it has already ceased to be so in his day.

"The large quadrangle formed by the foothills of the Alban volcanoes, by the Lepine mountains, by the wooded sand dunes of the coast, and by Mount Circeo, measuring some 150,000 acres of extraordinarily fertile land, embraces the entire area of the Pontine marshes. The water, hemmed in on all sides, could not flow out.

"In winter the mountain streams poured their foaming, muddy torrents upon this lowland, flooding thousands of acres; the rich mud slowly settled, coating the fields with a silt which is the finest of fertilizers; then the waters gradually ran out through narrow channels until, in summer, only the lowest portion of the land, that which lies practically at sea level, remained in a swampy condition.

"A dense, luxuriant growth of water plants sprang up with the approach of the warmer seasons; the stagnant, lukewarm waters teemed with life of every description, and toward the month of July the treacherous anopheles mosquito dropped its slimy larval veil, rose out of the marshes and, flying around in search of a living for itself, sowed death upon humanity.

"By stinging a malaria-infected person the mosquito infects itself, and then, stinging some healthy individual, it communicates the disease to him. Malaria is not deadly in itself, but its repeated attacks so weaken the human organism that frequently fatal illnesses take hold of the fever-stricken body.

"The insanations in winter and the malaria in summer drove the population out of the plain; but the unparalleled fertility of the soil enticed some people back to defy the disease. The lowlands of the Agro Pontino are deserted; there are no cities or villages, but some lonely hamlets and, scattered here and there, farm buildings, in which a few persons live in summer.

"Many centuries ago most of the inhabitants fled to the mountains, built their towns on some steep hills, and from those vantage points made dashes into the plain to work the fields and tend the cattle. Soon these people will be able to take up permanent homes in reclaimed areas of the former marshes."

Famed Louvre of Paris Spreads Over 50 Acres

Paris.—The Louvre in Paris can easily claim to be the largest composite public building in the world, for it occupies an area of nearly 50 acres. But its size and even its architectural features are of far less importance to humanity than the superb art collections within its walls, which had their beginning in the reign of Francis I, the great art patron, who tried to make Paris the Mecca of the cultured world by attracting thither the leading artists of the day.

The second great importance is its importance as a home of great royal scenes, for here Catherine de Medici lived after Henry II was killed and it witnessed the marriage of Margaret of Valois to Henry of Navarre, later Henry IV of France.

Only Weak Characters Indulge in Self-Pity

Never complain. Let that be your leading principle. Self-pity is one of the worst habits any one can have. Unfortunately, innumerable persons have this evil habit, to their own and other people's misfortune. By playing themselves, by continually pondering on their troubles and making a display of these in order to arouse pity in others, they increase their own sufferings without doing themselves any good whatever. Self-pity is sentimentalism of the most foolish kind, and is characteristic of the weakling. Just as dirt is matter in the wrong place, so is sentimentalism a feeling in the wrong place.

We are equipped with feelings that we may be attracted by them to leave undone that which may be serious, and so seek out that which will be advantageous. When we suffer pain, we should turn it to account by noting that something is going on which must be altered, and by setting to work on the instant to make the necessary change.

If, instead of doing this, we surrender to the pain, we are not true persons of feeling, but sentimentalists. There are, unfortunately, more sentimentalists than persons of true feeling, and in every one of us there is a considerable infusion of sentimentalism. Almost all of us like being commiserated, are fond of indulging in self-pity, thereby doing ourselves more harm than we imagine.—E. Tietzen.

Athenian Citizen Seen as Man of Many Parts

Pericles age shows that the outstanding Athenians were men of parts. Sophocles, for example, is now known as a poet only, but in 442 Pericles named him chief treasurer of the city. Besides, he was a big business man, politician, warrior, gentleman—quite the man about town.

But the average Athenian of the time likewise occupied varied roles. He was cultured, but as Pericles once stated, he was almost as good a soldier as the war-loving Spartans when conflict was at hand. He was a better sailor, in fact, thereby making his city supreme on the sea as was Sparta on land.

Greece, particularly Athens, is synonymous with such terms as mythology, early culture, and others, yet the study of the intimate details of Greek life is a field that has been barely scratched. Professor Merritt, historic authority, says:

Splendid Work in Africa

The medical missionaries of West Africa have brought about a decided improvement in the condition of the natives, particularly as concerns sleeping sickness and leprosy. Government officials have made tests and reported that the percentage of the entire population having sleeping sickness virus circulating in their blood has been reduced to 2.8 per cent, and that the percentage of new cases in the entire population has been reduced to 1.35 per cent. The conclusion is that while the disease is not yet completely stamped out, it is no longer epidemic. The vigorous measures of government and missionaries have saved villages and tribes from practical extermination.

The Ideal Job

The hours are from too early in the morning for a girl to be expected to wash the breakfast dishes until too late for her to help her mother get the dinner.

The salary is too low for her to feel she ought to contribute at home and high enough to permit her to wear as few clothes as any girl in the office. The work is hard enough to make her mother insist on the strictest recreation and easy enough to allow her strength for the Black Bottom.

The boss is handsome and single. The office is close to the station, with three good drug stores in the same block.—McCreedy Huston.

Junco Not Largest Elephant

Junco, the famous elephant of the Darroon & Bailey circus, was 10 feet 10 inches tall and weighed approximately six tons. Junco was one of the largest elephants ever in captivity, but there are records of larger elephants which were not taken alive, but killed. One elephant shot in East Africa measured 11 feet 8 1/2 inches at the shoulder, had a total length from trunk to end of tail of 15 feet 5 inches and a girth of forefoot of 5 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Use of Lobsters

"Of course, it is true that some persons kill themselves solely by overwork, but the fatalities that can be definitely traced to that cause, are few. It is the work and play combined that usually do the real damage; or, to express it more succinctly, it is the misuse of one's leisure time." In the opinion of J. Clarence Frank, who writes "Is Your Leisure a Menace or a Help?" in Hygeia Magazine.

Ahead of Their Time

A modest Scotman, in speaking of his family, said: "The Douglas family is a very, very acid Scotch family. The blue rim was'nt' laid into antiquity. We didn't have her back to him, but it's a long, long way back, and the history of the Douglas family is recorded in five volumes. In about the middle of the third volume, in a marginal note, are read, 'About this time the world was created.'—New Outlook.

POULTRY FACTS

NEW "LAYING HOUSE" BIG PROFIT FACTOR

Makes "Biddy" Egg-Producing Machine.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNU Service.

Hens become laying machines and nothing more in the new apartment houses which are replacing the old type single-story laying houses on many poultry farms.

Some of these new laying houses are from two to six stories high and have a capacity of several thousand hens. The birds are confined in these modern houses and are never on the ground after they go into the houses as pullets in the fall.

The successful management of apartment laying houses requires careful attention. Nations must contain all the essential ingredients, properly balanced, because the hens have no chance to supplement their feed with greens, minerals or grain found on the range. In one of the department's experiments a slightly deficient diet gave fairly good egg production with hens on range, but gave poor results when fed to hens confined in houses.

Ventilation in large laying houses is provided by mechanical ventilating systems. Many houses are insulated and are heated during the cold months. It is absolutely necessary that large houses of this type be kept clean and sanitary, or losses will be great.

Hen That Stops Laying Seldom Worth Keeping

It is easy to cull hens in the fall after they stop laying. The ones that stop laying first can be picked out by shriveled combs, yellow color of beak and legs, and by the fact that they immediately begin to molt.

It is an excellent plan to cull hens in the fall but it is better to cull continually throughout the entire year. The poultryman who watches his birds can tell very soon when a hen stops laying. Unless there is some good reason for this then is the proper time to get rid of her.

This does not take care of the low producers who lay regularly but infrequently. Much can be told about the depth and width of her body and the appearance of her head. Culling, of course, does not increase the ability of any individual hen to produce eggs. In addition to culling, a breeding program is needed through which the average producing ability of the flock can be gradually increased.—American Agriculturist.

Sand and Gravel

While no test work, to the best of my knowledge, has ever shown that the addition or omission of sand and gravel from chick or hen rations affected rate of growth or production, I thoroughly believe that grit has a place. Baby chicks that are to be kept off the ground the first few weeks of their lives are entitled to a chance to eat a little sand or gravel. The mere fact that they always crave it, even though a good mash containing plenty of calcium and phosphorus is available, is an argument that is hard to answer.

Of course, hungry chicks should not be encouraged to gorge on sand before they are given food and drink. But to give some sand and gravel at the start, and every week throughout their stay on our farms, is sound practice. I cannot but believe it makes for healthier, more vigorous chicks that will live and grow better.—Wallace Farmer.

Poultry Facts

An Australorp hen is said to have produced 343 eggs in 365 days under strict supervision of an official laying test.

When green feed is added as a supplement to the regular poultry ration, the birds grow better and lay more eggs. All the vitamins essential for growth and health can be made available if a variety of green feed is used.

A 5 per cent solution of carboric acid is valuable in treating scaly leg, a common and unsightly ailment among fowls.

Feed the pullets wet mash at least once a day in addition to having dry mash in the feed hoppers when they start to lay.

When plenty of clean litter is kept on the floor of the laying house, it serves as a door mat for the hens to wipe their feet upon before getting in the nest.

A dozen of eggs weighing 26 ounces contain 30 per cent more food than a dozen weighing 20 ounces.

Pullets will be better developed at a given age and ready for egg production earlier when they are separated from the cockerels at an early age and grown separately.

It is imperative that droppings from the fowls should be regularly removed from the dropping boards and properly buried with dry soil to prevent the escape of ammonia.

TRICKS OF MAGIC EXPLAINED

Take a pencil, shove a pin into it, as shown above, and ask some one to hold the pencil extended. Then you take a piece of string, stretch it behind the pencil, that is on the side away from you, and bring the ends around in front. In the above diagram the ends of the string are marked A and B. Twist A around the pin, and bring it back around the pencil. Do the same with B. Then twist A around the pin from the B side, and again bring it back around the pencil. Do the same with B, bringing it back around the pencil on the A side. Then hold the two ends taut in front, pull the pin out of the pencil, and the string will come loose without having to draw it over the top of the pencil. It appears to the audience that the string has been wound around the pencil several times, and when you suddenly jerk it loose, it will prove mystifying.
